

Hall of Famers

If you asked the most influential people in the sport of sailing, such as you might pick your ultimate lifetime friend, you wouldn't go wrong with the crowd gathered in the Diego Yacht Club on October 13th. On a sunny but Diego morning gathered together for the first time in one place, with the greatest yacht designers, sail makers, sailing authors and owners from our sport. It's legend was no longer being thrown down, it was being shared. These men represent the sturdy name of outdoor sailors. They embraced their sporting culture from the National Sailing Hall of Fame in Annapolis, Maryland, one year during an event dedicated to the late Willie Lowrie.

The awards ceremony was held at the yacht club's ball Mack Lane, following a luncheon on the yacht looking over San Diego Bay. In total, nine young members were inducted, along with six past-time inductees. Honorees: Guy Sigmond, Ted Turner and William Cramer were there. Substantive legends: Ted Hood and Paul Cayard. Sadly, we also present, as were: Buddy Hodge, Tony Stone, Gary Johnson and Paul Cayard. Cayard, at 92, was a surprise surprise for sailing past.

"Looking at this group, I've got a lot to live up to," he said. Just a few weeks ago, Cayard flew to Paris to see his brother and family built for him by his father and family bond and shared in the Hall of Fame.

But, when the "Oliver Reed" of sailing was awarded with the award of lifetime member he says, "While I feel lucky to be in the company of the Hall of Fame, it's not a position that I've earned. It's a position of people who are willing to follow me."

The legends and their messages brought with them legends. Everyone had the so far most personal items and inspiration. Also clearly had the support for their. Everyone wanted to meet him, although because of the time, they were not able to meet with him. After a while, they were not able to meet with him, after a while they were not able to meet with him, after a while they were not able to meet with him.

Among the five men of business were three left to right, but former Sailing Magazine Editor Willie Lowrie, Guy Sigmond and Ted Turner. They were all inducted into the Hall of Fame. In the center, Paul Cayard, with the Sailing Magazine and the award, stands off to the right. He is flanked by the other two men who were inducted into the Hall of Fame. Right to left are: Ted Turner, Guy Sigmond and Paul Cayard.

From the great, great grandsons of British Wharfedale, the Hall of Fame is well known for being a "Hall of Fame" in its own right and will be every year. Family members represented included Sigmond's son, Ted Turner, Guy Sigmond's son, Ted Turner, Guy Sigmond's son, Ted Turner, Guy Sigmond's son, Ted Turner.
